Overview

This standard identifies the requirements when working with children or young people in order to identify major transitions that may be occurring or are about to occur in their lives. Major transitions arising from life events may be an experience in the life of a child or young person that can affect them emotionally, behaviourally or developmentally. These transitions are major and far reaching, such as bereavement, divorce, relocation, separation from family through removal to children’s home and fostering. Such transitions may be known and planned for or unexpected and unplanned, but critically they have a major impact on the child or young person.

Additional Information

The details in this field are explanatory statements of scope and/or examples of possible contexts in which the NOS may apply; they are not to be regarded as range statements required for achievement of the NOS.

The use of the terms ‘child’ or ‘children’ in this standard may refer to your work on an individual or group basis.

Note: Where a child or young person finds it difficult or impossible to express their own preferences and make decisions about their life, achievement of this standard may require the involvement of advocates to represent the views and best interests of the child or young person.

Where there are language differences within the work setting, achievement of this standard may require the involvement of interpreters or translation services.

Agreed others Those whom the child or young person have either agreed should be told or those whom they already know will be told

Associated changes are changes brought about by the circumstances that the child or young person find themselves, i.e. a bereavement of someone close, being taken into care and the associated losses and emotions which accompany this.

Elsewhere It should not be assumed that support will come from another agency or organisation as there may be, for example, kinship or community solutions

Knowledge Where possible the child/young person’s agreement should be sought but where the duty of care outweighs agreement they should be informed what will happen

Others are your colleagues and other professionals whose work contributes to the child or young person’s well-being and who enable you to carry out your role

Strengths may include inner resilience and coping mechanisms. It may also be a supportive family or extended family, supportive community, faith or church group

Unique to that child Many children or young people come into care, many go to a foster home, many experience bereavement, but each child or young person's experience is different. No matter how often a learner works with a child or young person in similar circumstances, each child or young person’s experience is unique and should be treated as such.
